

Program description:

Nelson Network Hockey will emphasize skill development along with game understanding. You will learn the skill sets needed to play this great game along with tools to make you better come game time.

We believe off ice development is also important. Metro Network will have video sessions, off-ice physical training, and games to make you a better player.

We are pleased to announce the partnership of Nelson Hockey and Network Hockey. Two of the most prominent programs and hockey experts in our region are joining forces. Nelson Burton and Craig Laughlin have been at the forefront of developing skaters, athletes, leaders and competitors for over 30 years. Their knowledge is unsurpassed. Together they will provide the best hockey and character development for kids of all ages.

Nelson Burton is a former NHL player and professional coach. A native of Nova Scotia, Canada, Nelson's career included playing for the Washington Capitals during the late 1970's. Since retirement from professional play, Nelson has focused on bringing the game to local youth, coaching local clubs and school teams, and in the last decade, spearheading the Nelson Hockey Association based out of Piney Orchard.

Craig Laughlin, an NHL Veteran, is currently in his 20th season as lead analyst for the Washington Capitals televised games on Comcast SportsNet. As an NCAA Division I All-Star player as well as Canadian Junior A All-Star, Craig has devoted his life to the game of hockey. Craig has over 30 years teaching and coaching hockey. His unique hockey background makes him an expert in the field of hockey and player development.
